SERVICES

TOLL MANUFACTURE

As Toll Manufacturer, we can provide customers with a facility and manufacturing equipment to process their raw materials or semi-finished products. Because of this, the customer only has a variable cost of manufacturing without the financial investment in equipment, facilities, and employees. Your company provides raw materials (or semi-finished goods), we will then provide the rest of the services (manufacturing). We have the equipment and organizational models in place to supply your subclasses of manufacturing processes. With toll manufacturing, the customer is equipped with the resources to develop their own specialty in the manufacturing process. Subsequently, you are able to develop the exact product you envision, without the time and capital investment of building a manufacturing operation. This significantly decreases the time required to get the product to market, as lead times for ordering and installing new machinery are eliminated.

CONTRACT MANUFACTURING

Similar to toll manufacturing, contract manufacturing involves outsourcing production processes to a third-party company. In contract manufacturing, however, the third-party company hired to produce the goods is supplying the manufacturing process as well as sourcing all of the raw materials. Contract manufacturing is creating a supply chain vendor for a branded, private label or custom-made product. The contract manufacturer is responsible for making the product to specification and meeting the delivery time requirements. This offers you a fast and effective method of extending your product line with minimal investment and a made-to-order supply program.
